

Quintrex 2017: bigger, brighter, bolder, better

For decades Quintrex have set the standard for the others to follow. Advanced hull designs, stunning performance, and styling that is both market leading and innovative see no weakening of that trend, and the release of their new models stretch forming technology with the strength of pressed aluminum side sheets, the Blade hull design results in a boat that is sleek and streamline in looks and equally impressive in performance, handling, and ride. The legendary 610 is rated to a staggering 200hp. With ratings of this size the 570 and 610 are impressive to say the least. A favourite with keen anglers, the Renegade range has stepped it up to another level with the release of two new models. The Renegade 530 continues to see them as one of the forerunners of the aluminium boat industry.

Spacious and comfortable, the forward section of the 630 Freestyler is impressive to say the least.

Upcoming in 2017 is the release of new models within existing line-ups, many of which are an answer to the calls from customers for a specific model or models, while the release of a whole new concept in hull design heralds a new dawn for Quintrex of aluminium hull design and performance.

"We're always very conscious of listening to our customers and dealers and many of the new models are a response to us listening to what our customers wanted," explains Quintrex's Account Manager Drew Jackson.

While the expansion to existing line-ups has helped strengthen proven ranges, it's the introduction of the new Apex hull concept that's destined to chart out new water for Quintrex and its customers.

"We're incredibly excited about the Apex hull design and what it offers. It offers a level of comfort, stability and performance like we've never been able to offer before. It's definitely next level stuff when it comes to aluminium hull design and performance," added Jackson.

MORE CHOICES.

Quintrex's famous Blade hull design technology goes from strength to strength in 2017 and features heavily in the new line-up. A design that combines advanced supersedes the previous 520 model, while the 570 introduces Quintrex's biggest Renegade ever.

The Freestyler 550 launches into action.

Available in side and centre console configurations the Renegade boats are fuss-free fishing platforms with a host of features that come standard including a large carpeted floor complete with casting platform, live bait tank, rod holders, anchor well and transom step.

Built tough with 3mm topside and bottom sheets, and high sides for safety and angler security, the taking Hornet design and performance to a new level. Standard features include a 30% longer front casting deck, a folding rear casting platform with fixed rear seats, 30% more storage and folding cleats for a cleaner look and work space.

The console on the new Stealth models will accommodate a sounder up to 12", while the largest model in the range, the 530, has the option of a dual console and a centre rod locker in the front casting deck.

The new Stealth Hornet models aren't short on power either with a 75hp (470), 115hp (510), and 130hp (570) maximum horsepower rating on each of the three models.

Large, clear, clutter-free front and rear decks, voluminous storage hatches, stability, power and sure-footedness through chop and corners are the trademarks of the new Stealth Hornet models, and are attributes that are sure to see the Hornet name retain the reputation and following that it has enjoyed for many years.

YELLOWFIN FEVER

Quintrex's Yellowfin offshore plate boat range welcomes two new family members with the 7000 and 7600 Southerners designed to handle the rough conditions of Southern Australia.

Featuring the refined hull design that was released with the range in 2016, the two new models for 2017 feature a 300mm longer cabin for extra driver and passenger protection, and a now-standard carpet-lined hood on the hard top models that improves looks and comfort.

Optional features include a portside wiper option, external handwash featuring a foot switch, while a lockable bait station

The 570 Renegade will take up to a 115hp outboard and offers anglers plenty of power, speed and range.

The 530 Stealth Hornet is a sportfish angler's dream with large decks, plenty of storage, and exceptional comfort, making it hard to go past.

on the stern provides ample tackle storage and a large, well thought out baiting and rigging area. All HT (Hard Top) models feature a rain deflector for added protection and dryness, while the largest of the two new models, the 7600 Southerner, is rated for a 300hp outboard. If a single 300hp is not to your liking there is the option for twin 150s.

Strong, powerful and uncompromising, the new Yellowfin Southerners are designed for those who aren't willing to settle for anything but the biggest and the best.

A NEW HORIZON

The release of the new Apex Hull design at the bow provides greater lift, resulting in better boat position and attitude on the water.

The Apex Hull features RSDs (Raised Side Decks) that increase overall internal volume by 20%. It's also fully welded for improved strength and rigidity. The new Apex Hull is a step above what has come before with its modern styling and design elements delivering a significantly progressive, contemporary look to the Quintrex brand.

The Apex Hull is available in two ranges, the Frontier and Freestyler. The Frontier is available in five different sizes, 510, 530, 550, 590, and a super comfortable, super roomy watersports vessel.

THE NEW FRONTIER

The console of the new Frontier has a tonne of storage room and can accommodate a 12" sounder, while the front casting platform has room for your favourite Eva-Kool esky. The 510 and 530 will accommodate a 50L, while the larger models will take an 85L, and even an impressive 110L. If the raised casting option is selected.

Four stainless steel rod holders, and aluminium live bait tank with viewing window, and Sea Tread kit on the transom and front further enhance the Frontier's list of standard options to make it an excellent choice for those

The inside of the Freestyler is sleek and modern and offers more space and 80mm more freeboard thanks to Quintrex's RSDs (Raised Side Decks).

Featuring all the elements of the Apex Hull design including RSD, sweeping chine, increased hull flare, and outstanding comfort, stability and cornering ability, the Freestyler looks as good as it performs. The RSDs increase the space substantially, while providing a greatly level of user safety and confidence, making it ideal for families. The lines of the Apex Hull combined with the forked bow of the RSD and sleek windscreen profile provide a modern contemporary aesthetic. The Freestyler doesn't scrim on storage either with plenty of storage throughout including up), barn door, bow ladder, ski pole and bait board, picnic table, and Fish Pack Rear Lounge. The Freestyler is the showpiece of the new Apex Hull design and is a range that impresses you with both when at rest and in action. Quintrex's Nathan Shaw gave us an insight to the company's thoughts on the Sure-footed and with plenty of power through the corners, the Quintrex Freestyler eats up the conditions.

is Quintrex's newest evolution in hull design since the introduction of the Blade Hull in 2011, and it's one that Quintrex is ecstatic about.

"We released the Apex Hull to our dealer network at a recent conference on the Gold Coast and we were overwhelmed with their response. I encourage anyone to test drive one of the Apex Hulls, because the results speak for themselves," explained Quintrex's Account Manager Nathan Shaw.

The key design element of the Apex Hull design is the flare of its hull. Carried further aft to maintain continual contact with the water, the result is a smoother more comfortable ride. The wider, sweeping chine design of the Apex Hull opens the front of the hull that allows the flaring to carry further along the stem to significantly enhance rough water performance and capabilities. The widening of the chine has greatly improved boat stability and grip when cornering, while the increased surface area

630, and is available in both side or centre console configuration. Featuring the Apex Hull's flared bow, 4mm bottom and 3mm side sheets, and RSDs that deliver 80mm more freeboard and allow for concealed controls and wiring, the Frontier is a range that is equally at home as a fishing platform or as looking for a boat that's a multi-use all-rounder.

For those looking for a bit more flash and splash in their life, the Freestyler range has the Apex Hull for them. Available in five models, 510, 530, 550, 590 and 630, the Freestyler series is serious fun and shows a side to Quintrex boats that we've never seen before.

Like nothing we've seen before from Quintrex, the new 630 Freestyler is a huge leap forward in design and performance.

a console storage hatch that allows for quick easy access to your valuables.

The Freestyler's performance and style are equally matched with power. The 530 is rated to a 130hp, while the biggest model in the range, the 630, takes up to a 200. The 630 running a 175hp Evinrude G2 E-Tec, for example, is impressive when it comes to hole shot, powers through corners and top speed when run wide open. With a 200 on the transom, the performance and power will be next level again.

For those looking to pump their ride, the Freestyler offers a long and impressive list of optional features including a wakeboard tower on the larger models (550 and Freestyler and who it will appeal to.

"The Freestyler features a unique, modern look with sleek sporty lines. The performance of this boat is unbelievable, the way it handles corner and rough makes it suitable for a variety of uses."

Quintrex's new models for 2017 see the evolution of this famous brand continue. The addition of new models within the Blade Hull series further enhances the famous hull design line-up, while the creation of the innovative Apex Hull design heralds a new future in performance, function and style. To find out more about the new models visit your local Quintrex dealer or visit www.quintrex.com.au.

Clear, clutter-free decks with plenty of holeshot, the new 470 Stealth Hornet is an impressive sportfishing boat.